INDEX-TRIBUNE OFFICE

The Matchmaking of Bobby.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

With a smile of glorious anticipation illuminating his chubby face, Bobby trotted up the street as fast as a pair of very fat and very little legs would carry him. He was going to see Dick Brant. Next to visiting Alice Mayling this was his greatest treat. Richard Brant could not make amazing cookies and preserves like Miss Mayling, but he could tell stories of Indians and grizzlies and other creatures dear to the small boy's heart. Miss Mayling's stories carried morals and were about little boys who were so very good that Bobby found them extraordinarily uninteresting. Had it been that the Mayling cakes were as good as her young heroes Bobby would not have been a frequent caller on Alice Mayling.

This afternoon as he was warning his dimpled hands before the open fire he regarded with secret awe the deft fashion in which Brant rolled himself a cigarette with one hand. Brant had been a plainsman until he had run across a mine while he was looking for stray cattle, and he could throw a rope and talk real Indian talk.

"I looked for you yesterday," said Dick Brant gravely as he sank into a chair on the opposite side of the fireplace.

"I was seeing Miss Mayling," explained Bobby. "She makes cake on Thursdays."

"And you deserted me because Miss Mayling was making cake?" cried Dick solemnly. In reality, though he used mock paths, he was a little jealous of Miss Mayling's popularity with his little chum. Somehow Bobby seemed to Brant the most sincere friend he had made in the big eastern city.

"Cake is nice just out of the oven," explained Bobby. "She always bakes a little cake for me, and of course I have to go and eat it."

"I suppose so," assented Dick "but I was very lonesome yesterday."

"In sorry," said Bobby, with prompt penitence and a troubled face. "Wouldn't it be nice," he added, "if I could go to see you and Miss Mayling at the same time? You could tell me stories and she could bake cake."

He stared into the fire, lost in rapture at the thought of this most valuable combination. Dick looked scared and blushed. He was little used to feminine society, and a suggestion like that, even from Bobby, startled him. Besides, he had been secretly studying Miss Mayling from afar.

"Then you wouldn't be lonesome any more," resumed Bobby, the vast attractions of his good idea growing on him, "not even if I didn't come and see you, 'cause then you and she would have each other. But of course I would come to see you," he added quickly.

"I would be awful nice," "I guess it would," assented Dick a little absently.

"Then why don't you?" demanded Bobby, with engaging directness.

"To begin with, I don't know her," explained Dick. "You see, a man has to know a lady before he can call on her, and I've never met Miss Mayling."

When Bobby finally trotted away he was thinking deeply. It was absurd that his best man should not know Miss Mayling.

At the next baking day at Miss Mayling's the thought was revived, and with a denial that meant immense determination to take his small piece of home. As soon as he was out of her sight he carried it to Brant, his fat legs speeding wonderfully.

"Ain't it fine?" he demanded eagerly when he had watched Brant devour the last spicy morsel, not without envy that almost assumed a poignant degree.

"Simply great," admitted Brant, with unforced enthusiasm. "I tell you, Bobby, the woman who made that cake is a wonder of a cook."

he went to visit Miss Mayling with the more or less peremptory request that she bake him a fruit cake.

"Going to have a tea party, Bobby?" she asked gayly. But Bobby shook his head solemnly and declined to be drawn into trivial conversation.

"I want it for some one—some one who doesn't get nice cake," he condescended at last, examining Miss Mayling shrewdly as he spoke.

"If you don't tell me who it is I won't bake it for you," she teased, anticipating the revelation of some new love affair. Bobby was as popular as he was likable, and Miss Mayling, hardened by experience with the young man, supposed that only the power of love could have induced him to forego the eating of her cake the day before.

"Have I got to?" he asked anxiously, fearful that a premature explanation might destroy the success of the abduction.

"Certainly," insisted Miss Mayling. Bobby was dismayed. But the cake must be secured at all hazards.

"It's for Mr. Brant," he explained. "He said if you baked him a fruit cake he'd come with his pony and hit all the chiefs on the head with a tommyhawk and carry you off and make you his wife. You'd have to live in a tent and cook with hot stones instead of a gas range, and—anyhow, he says he'll do it if you tempt him with fruit cake."

Miss Mayling leaned over and kissed the earnest little face.

"I think," she said softly, "that I'll bake two little cakes next week, Bobby, so that you and your friend shall each have one."

Bobby looked into the serene face, into which there had crept something he had never seen there before—a tender curve to the even lips, a new light in the brown eyes that made them glow and sparkle and flim with tears by turns.

He had always thought Miss Mayling almost as pretty as his mother, but now he was disloyal for a moment and thought she was more beautiful than anybody he had ever seen.

His moist little fingers clasped her slim, cool hand, and he looked up into her starry eyes.

"I wish I was big enough to 'duct you," he said enviously. "I bet Mr. Brant wouldn't get that cake."

Alice Mayling bent over and pinched his chubby cheeks.

"Bobby, my dear, you remind me of a certain little god without whose aid Lochinvar himself would have failed."

And then she looked up suddenly to see passing her window a tall, straight figure, with his glance firmly fixed ahead.

"Of course he wouldn't be so ordinary as to stare to here," she said softly. "But he's the sort who'll find a way—and I don't think I'll make it very hard for him."

Bobby cuddled closer to her soft, silken frock.

"What makes grownups say things that don't tell anything?" he demanded. But she did not answer.

Intoxicating Drinks.
 "We have 6000 intoxicating drinks in America," said a temperance lecturer. "That, I believe, is the record."

"Expert as our metropolitan bartenders are, they have none of them mastered the entire American drink question, and they would throw up their wet hands if a man asked for a bak-no-ma-shalo, a casasha, a sam, a larangina or even a mescal."

"You see, all the races that compose America introduce here the drinks of their old homes. Bak-no-ma-shalo and sam are oriental cordials, sweet and perfumed and unsteady, that our soldiers and sailors learned to like in the Philippines."

SUCCESS IN LIFE.

What the World Owe a Man and What a Man Owe the World.

The supposed indebtedness of the world to a man has not often been reduced to specific terms, but many a man has had the feeling that his failure was the world's fault, not his own and that the world somehow, somewhere, ought to be compelled to pay for its callous indifference to his personal welfare.

Some men spend a good deal of time wondering or discussing whether life is worth living. Other men are so busy living that they don't care to take time out for the discussion of the question. It is not the workers, the men who carry forward the world's business, who indulge in speculation as to the extent of the world's indebtedness to themselves. It is the men who have no business but sedulous speculation, like the endless day dreaming of the Indian fakir, which comes out of the same door as that by which it entered.

If the man has something to sell which is of market value the world will buy it from him and pay him for it. It is a perfectly fair and straight business transaction. A man has no more right to expect the world to pay him for what it does not want than he has to expect an individual customer to purchase an unnecessary article. No self-respecting man, unless sheer necessity compels him, will demand that the world shall mingle charity with business and pay him for something it cannot use.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE VALENTINE MYTH.
 One Theory as to the Origin of the Variety Stage.

It is not easy to trace the variety stage back to its earliest beginnings for the scene begins to grow faint in antebellum days, and the trail loses itself beyond recall in the early forerunners of what may be called the "Bill Valentine Myth." This I will relate as it was imparted to me by Mr. Alston Brown, the "Historian of the New York Stage."

Uncertain what to call his place of entertainment, he applied to a friend for a fitting name.

"What sort of an entertainment are you going to give?" said the friend.

"Well, I'm going to give a variety of things," said Mr. Valentine.

"Then why not call it a variety show?" suggested the other.

And thereupon, according to this myth, the term "variety show" came into use.—James L. Ford in McClure's Magazine.

Locating Her Car.
 A hearty laugh at the pointed query of an interesting four-year-old girl was enjoyed a few days ago by a number of persons waiting on a platform at Broad street station for the departure of a westbound accommodation train.

The little lady had been going lately at a Pullman observation coach and after a brief mental contrast of the more pretentious car with the ordinary passenger coach which she was about to take asked of her mother, "Mamma, what kind of a car is that one with the beautiful windows and pretty plush covered chairs?"

"That is a parlor car, my dear," was the reply. "Well, I guess ours is for a kitchen car, then, isn't it?" was the very suggestive question, which as yet has not been answered to the child's satisfaction.—Philadelphia Record.

Silence.
 Silence is a language understood in every country.

Were silence to be enforced on all of us for a single day the fools would go mad. The wise would talk less thereafter.

Silence in the shallow man means that he is out of breath.

A man is known by the silence he keeps.

A silent man may not be thinking, but the burden of proof is not on him. To be silent in company is to invite the suspicion that "you have something on your mind." The reason is obvious.—Life.

The Sun a Star?
 The sun is one of a stream of stars moving in the same direction and with equal velocities. Thus says Professor Kobold of the observatory of Kiel, who has become convinced by his studies of star currents that the sun does actually form part of such a current, which is moving toward a point on the edge of the Milky way.

Kaptein of Groningen has come to the conclusion that the stars drift in two directions. This conclusion is based on the examination of 2,500 stars observed repeatedly.

Discouraging.
 Mother—Why, Ethel, you mustn't be sad on your birthday. What is it?
 Ethel—Well, Tommy'll be eight next month, and then he'll be a year older than me again, and I've tried so hard to catch him up.—London Punch.

Sonoma High School Building and Grand Jury

Among other matters brought to the attention of the Sonoma Grand Jury in session in Santa Rosa last Tuesday was the alleged failure on the part of Contractor Warriner to finish the work, according to contract, on the twelve thousand dollar building which houses the professors, teachers and students of the Sonoma Valley Union High School district in this city.

Of course the Grand Jury refused to take any action in the matter, as the building was erected by the contractor, Mr. A. E. Warriner of this place, strictly according to the specifications and to the entire satisfaction of the architect, and the building was long ago accepted by him on behalf of the High School Board.

It is not only a substantial building and an ornament to Sonoma Valley but reflects credit on Mr. Warriner, who is one of our most reliable contractors and builders.

The cause of this attempt to bring discredit on the construction of our High School building is the old, old story. Jumping at a chance that something in the way of a scandal might develop out of a groundless "kick" certain parties in this valley have from time to time been "howling their heads off" at the county seat and nagging the Grand Jury to go on a fishing expedition in the hopes that the drag net of that inquisitorial body might perchance bring something to the surface. This noise about our High School building is the old familiar sound emanating from a few evil-minded would-be reformers in this valley who, when they had nothing else to do, have set up a hue and cry about a Supervisor Hart bridge not being built according to specifications or hint at graft in connection with the building of Sonoma County's New Court House. However, no sensible people down this way take their mouthings seriously.

The graft prosecution of San Francisco has failed to secure a conviction in the case of Luther Brown, charged with kidnaping Fremont Older. The jury which tried the case after deliberating 19 hours on a verdict finally acquitted the accused. Evidently Heney, in his efforts to send everybody in the metropolis to jail, except the thieving Supervisors, has shot his bolt. He has the business interests of San Francisco opposed to him and the prosecution of Calhoun, Murphy, Ford, Brown and others who have come under the ban of the prosecution, is now looked upon as persecution. We must confess that it does look that way when one takes into consideration that the self-confessed boodlers and grafters are granted immunity for the purpose of securing their testimony to convict men who for years have stood high socially and commercially in San Francisco.

The authority of the Board of Supervisors to set aside a section of the county road for the recent automobile races near Santa Rosa, having been questioned, we would call the attention of our readers to the following section of the Code, which vested in them that authority: "Subdivision 6. Local authorities may, notwithstanding the other provisions of this section, set aside for a given time a specified public highway for speed tests or races, to be conducted under proper restrictions for the safety of the public." (See Stat. 1907, page 916).

The winemakers of this State will hold an important meeting at the California building, Union square, San Francisco, next Wednesday afternoon at 2 P. M. The winemakers of the Sonoma Valley should make a mental note of this meeting and under no circumstances should they fail to attend, as business of great importance in connection with one of our leading industries will be discussed at the meeting. Mr. A. Sbarboro, President of the Grape Growers Association, issued the call.

More Applications for Liquor Licenses

On Friday afternoon of last week the Board of Supervisors received applications for four liquor licenses in this valley—one at Baxterville, two at Verano and one at Agua Caliente. The applicants were Harry Bernard, Louis Perente, Paul Vannucchi and Italia Maffei. A public hearing before the Supervisors was set for Tuesday, June 8th.

School Census for Sonoma

The school census marshal's report for Sonoma has been filed with County Superintendent of Schools Montgomery. The report shows that there are 307 school children in this city, an increase of 12 over 1908.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists 75 cents. PRIZE GIVEN TO STATE'S MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL.

Miss Vergilia Bogue of San Francisco.

The most beautiful girl in the State of California has finally been selected by the Portola Festival Committee of San Francisco. But what a hard job it was! Over two thousand of California's most beautiful girls submitted their photos to the Executive Committee of the Portola Festival for judgment.

The staid business men of that city labored days over deciding upon the most beautiful girl. It was no easy task. Now these men are ready to announce their judgment to the world.

Miss Vergilia Bogue, a resident of San Francisco, is the honored young woman. She occupies a high social position in the metropolis, her father being Virgil Bogue, Vice-President and Chief Engineer of the Western Pacific Railway Company, and one of the most eminent men in his work in the world.

The selection of Miss Bogue will do credit to the State of California, and every loyal son and daughter should feel proud of the splendid representative the Executive Committee has chosen.

Miss Bogue has had a most interesting career, and while only just out of her teens has traveled the world over several times. Her family is one of the most blue blooded in this country today.

Miss Bogue was born in Auburn in this State, September 20th, 1886. She is the daughter of Sybil Russell and Virgil Gay Bogue. She is a descendant of the Norman house of de Russell, de Grasse, de Lawrence and Bogue. Baron Charles de Russell went to England with the conqueror in 1066, and his son, Sir Charles Russell, was made a Baronet. The family was one of the Royalists but turned to Cromwell, and most of the family fled to America during the wars. They settled in Branford, Conn., and in South Hadley, Mass. The Rev. John Russell, still true to the cause of Cromwell, conceded in his house at South Hadley three regicides of Charles II—the men who had signed his death warrant. The remains are still in the Russell cellar. His son, Rev. Samuel Russell of Branford, was instrumental in organizing the new University of Connecticut, being a graduate of Harvard, and it was in his parlors at Branford that Yale University was founded.

Miss Bogue's mother was the youngest of a large family of children who have since become famous. Her brother, Leslie W. Russell, became judge of the Supreme Court of New York, and her eldest sister was called the Queen of New York by reason of her beauty. It is from her undoubtedly that Miss Bogue gets her queenly looks.

Many of the Bagues fought in the Revolution and are entirely a New York family. The de Grasses settled in Massachusetts in the later part of the eighteenth century and unfortunately lost their old Norman name by changing it to Weed. The Lawrences were also New York settlers.

The ladies will hold their annual bazaar in the early fall.

Death of an Ex-Policeman

J. Lycette, an ex-policeman of San Francisco, died at his temporary home on Broadway in this place last Sunday morning of consumption.

A few years ago the deceased was a strong, athletic and healthy man, but during the teamster's strike in the metropolis he was thrown from his horse, during the performance of his duty and injured his lungs. Consumption set in and he was compelled to retire from service. He came here with his family in hopes that a change of climate would restore him to health, but in vain.

Mr. Lycette leaves a wife and three daughters. The remains were shipped to San Francisco Monday morning for interment in Holy Cross Cemetery, the funeral taking place Wednesday.

The deceased was born in San Francisco 38 years ago and was a member of the Widows and Orphans Aid Association of the San Francisco Police Department; San Francisco Aerle, No. 5, F. O. E. and Camp Tamalpais, No. 427, W. O. W.

SUDDEN DEATH

ABOARD TRAIN

A Pioneer Miner Expires in Passenger Coach While Train Speeds Onward.

Richard Jenkins, an aged mining man, on his way from Mexico to Boyes Springs, died suddenly in one of the passenger coaches of the Northwestern Pacific railroad last Saturday evening.

Jenkins, who is the father-in-law of Arthur McGill of this valley, boarded the train at Tiburon, and was so weak that he required the assistance of a fellow passenger to help him to his seat in the coach. No further attention was paid to the old gentleman until the train was about to stop at Boyes Springs when the conductor discovered that Jenkins was dead. He had calmly passed away, without the knowledge of his fellow passengers between Schellville and this city.

The coach containing the dead man was backed down to this place and sidetracked to await the arrival of Coroner Blackburn, who held an inquest Sunday.

It developed at the inquest that the deceased had died from rheumatism of the heart. He was 55 years of age and a pioneer mining man of California. F. Lorenzi of this place was an old friend and mined with deceased in Sierra county thirty-five years ago.

Mr. Jenkins had long been a sufferer from rheumatism, and was returning from Mexico, whither he had gone for his health, when he died so suddenly. The remains after the inquest, were taken in charge by Arthur McGill, his son-in-law, and shipped to San Francisco for interment.

Grand Jury Investigates

The Sonoma County Grand Jury reconvened in Santa Rosa last Tuesday to consider a number of matters which have been called to its attention. One of these matters pertained to the Weaver Patent Power Pump Company, a local corporation organized here several years ago. The President of the corporation is J. K. Bigelow and W. O. Hocker is its Secretary. At the solicitation of some twenty or twenty-five of its dissatisfied stockholders the Grand Jury had been appealed to make an investigation of its affairs.

A number of witnesses were summoned Tuesday to appear before that inquisitorial body to testify to matters pertaining to the inside affairs of the company, which are not to the liking of the dissatisfied stockholders who want to know where the money they put into the concern has gone.

The investigation resulted in nothing tangible. It was asserted that the sum of $180 was missing from the funds of the corporation, and that it had been drawn from bank by check which did not bear the signature of the president of the company. The statement had been made to some of the witnesses examined that the money was the private property of the individual who withdrew it, and that it had simply become mixed up with the company funds. The result of the investigation will probably be that the stockholders will have a meeting and a settlement of the affairs of the company. The evidence did not develop anything of a criminal nature in the matter.

Brief Mention.

Dr. Fred'k Leix has purchased a brand new Buick White Streak 18-horse power automobile and it is a beauty.

Next Wednesday is "Sonoma Day," when everybody is expected to get busy and assist the Woman's Club with teams and labor in improving our Plaza.

There was a double runaway in this place Thursday near the noon hour. Two horses without drivers and attached to light vehicles rushed madly along Napa street and were not stopped until they had run several miles. Nobody was hurt and the damage was slight.

The New County Court House Furnishings

The Board of Supervisors at a meeting held Monday wound up its business for the May session.

One of the matters that came up for discussion was the plans and specifications which are being prepared for furnishing the new Court House. It is estimated by Architect J. W. Dolliver that the furnishings will cost between $100,000 and $110,000. Of this sum $10,000 will be for fire proof vaults. The Board will endeavor to cut this expense down to $50,000 or $60,000.

GENERAL FRISBIE HAS PASSED AWAY

Died at His Home in the City of Mexico Last Tuesday at the Age of 86 Years.

Gen. John B. Frisbie is dead. He passed away at his home in the City of Mexico on the 11th inst., so a dispatch from that city states. The particulars of his death are not as yet at hand.

General Frisbie was the brother-in-law of Mrs. Lulu Emparan of this place, Mrs. Haraszthy of Oakland and Mrs. Harry Cutter of San Francisco.

General Frisbie's name is intimately interwoven with the history of California. He came to this State in 1847 with the famous Stevenson regiment, and from that day to the day of his death in the far away Mexican capital, has been prominently identified with the State's interests. He early founded the city of Vallejo, served in the California Legislature, engaged in banking and many large enterprises and amassed a fortune which is nearer a million dollars than half a million.

Thirty-one years ago Gen. Frisbie went to Mexico and engaged in mining and the sugar industry in that country, which yielded him most of his big fortune.

For years Gen. Frisbie has been one of the leading men of the City of Mexico and aside from President Diaz was one of the most popular men in the republic.

Gen. Frisbie was a New Yorker, having been born in that State on May 20, 1823, and was therefore over 86 years of age when he died.

Painful Accident

Leland, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Adler, while playing in the yard of his home last Tuesday, fell, and striking a tin can, cut a deep gash over his right eye. The injury, which will not disfigure the little fellow, was attended to by Dr. Thomson.

Ed Callen Dead

W. E. Callen, well-known in this valley, died very suddenly in Fresno on Friday night of last week. The remains were shipped to his old home in Santa Rosa for interment. The funeral took place Monday in that city and was largely attended.

Dues Raised.

The Sonoma Valley Woman's Club, at a meeting held on Friday afternoon of last week, raised the membership dues to $2 per annum. The object of the raise is to increase the revenue of the club, which has been at low ebb of late.

THE TORCH OF AN INCENDIARY

Applied to the Frick Home in Glen Ellen Friday Night of Last Week

The incendiary is again abroad in Glen Ellen. At a late hour on Friday night of last week the denizens of that peaceful little town were startled from their slumbers by lurid flames which were devouring the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frick, and it was soon reduced to ashes.

The family were absent in Santa Rosa attending the Carnival and as no one had been about the premises during the day the fire was undoubtedly started by the torch of an incendiary.

This is the third or fourth mysterious fire up that way the past two years and the people are very much alarmed. Should the author of these fires ever be apprehended he will undoubtedly be lynched by an outraged people.

Is Again Widowed

Mrs. Edward C. Ebsen of Martinez, formerly Mrs. Eva Engelbert of this place, is again widowed.

Some years after the death of her husband, Chas. Engelbert, who was a well-known business man of this city, the widow was married to Mr. Ebsen, a prominent man of Martinez.

On Wednesday of last week, Mr. Ebsen, who had lived in Martinez for 37 years, and had been in the employ of the Warehouse Co. at Nevada Docks, went out for a short walk, as had long been his custom, and died suddenly of heart failure. His dog, which had been his constant companion for a number of years, was with him and hearing the animal moaning and barking, Mrs. Ebsen went out to learn what the unusual actions of the dog meant, and found the faithful fellow standing over the lifeless form of his master giving vent to almost human demonstrations of grief.

The day previous to his sudden passing, transportation tickets had been purchased for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hartin of Eureka and Mr. and Mrs. Ebsen intended starting on the journey the following day. In fact the night before he died Mr. Ebsen assisted in packing for the trip and seemed in the best of spirits and rested well during the night and his sudden death was therefore a great shock to his wife. He had been in rather feeble health for several months past, having had a slight stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago, but from which he seemed to have quite recovered.

Besides his wife, the deceased leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. J. D. Drinkall of New York, and Mrs. G. A. Von Heinbach of Hollister, Cal. and one son, Ed. C. Ebsen, editor of the Pinole Times. He was 67 years old and a native of Germany.

Work at the Sonoma State Home

Twenty-five carpenters are now engaged in rushing the work on the administration building at the Sonoma State Home at Eldridge. The plastering of the interior of the building has already been completed and the directors expect to occupy the building about July 1.

The Daily Call and Index-Tribune $9 per year for both papers.

Artesian Water at One Hundred and Twenty-five Feet

D. Volquardsen and his force of artesian well-borers struck a fine flowing artesian well on the Durant place, one day last week, at a depth of 125 feet. It required but six days work to reach that depth.

The well-boring outfit has been moved to Boyes Springs and Mr. Volquardsen is now boring a well in the quince orchard facing on the county road. If a good flow of water is secured it will be piped to the bathing establishment about a quarter of a mile distant.

WILL F. CLEWE CLAIMS HIS BRIDE.

His Marriage to Miss Smith a Beautiful and Impressive Church Affair.

The nuptials of Wm. F. Clewe of this place and Miss Harriet Porcher Smith of Santa Rosa were solemnized in the Episcopal Church of Incarnation in that city last Wednesday evening.

It was a pretty church affair and was largely attended by the relatives and friends of the groom here and residents of San Francisco and Santa Rosa, relatives and friends of the bride in those cities.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of Lohegrin's wedding march, played on the organ by Mrs. Ross Campbell. The ushers, Press Smith, Lesesne Smith, Gaillard Du Bose and E. C. Leichter, led the way. They were followed by the charming little flower girl, Miss Margaret Collier, niece of the bride. She was prettily gowned in white.

The bridesmaids, Miss Harriet P. Smith and Miss Doris Clewe, came next, and were followed by Miss Mary Smith, the maid of honor, all attractively gowned in pink and carrying shower bouquets.

The bride entered leaning on the arm of her brother, Temple Smith, who gave her away. The bride's gown was a handsome creation of white silk, with bridal veil of tulle falling in graceful folds to the hem of the dress. She carried an exquisite bouquet of Alpine violets.

At the chancel steps the bridegroom and his best man, Ernest Clewe, received the party.

The Reverend G. Marshall Cutting, M. A., rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, and the Reverend George T. Baker the rector, were the officiating clergymen.

The ceremony over the bridal party were driven from the church to the suburban home of the bride's mother, near Santa Rosa. There a reception was held to which only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends were bidden. The rooms of the residence were lavishly ornamented with flowers, the decoration scheme being admirably executed.

Thursday morning the bride and groom took the Southern Pacific Oregon Express for Shasta Springs where they will spend their honeymoon.

New Time Card of Northwestern Pacific Railroad

The new time card of the Northwestern Pacific railroad went into effect last Tuesday. Under the new arrangement the morning train departs from Sonoma for San Francisco and way stations at 6:46 and arrives in that city at 9:05 A. M.

Bassett vs. Danieli

The civil suit instituted in Judge Small's Court by A. Bassett against Chas. Danieli of El Verano to recover a quantity of personal property claimed by the plaintiff, was decided last Monday in favor of the defendant. The plaintiff was represented by F. A. Meyer of Petaluma and the defendant's interests were looked after by lawyer H. P. Mathewson of this city.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts. He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.
